Chuck -- Here's a little poll we're running today.

Feel free to use it if you think it will bring better government to the good folks who subscribe to your . . .

By the way,

1. How many complaints of voting irregularities were there in Putnam County Tuesday?
2. What other communities have the same voting machines as Cookeville?
3. Have those communities had problems with their machines?
4. What does the state say about complaints in Putnam County?
5. Have you tried to interview anyone who alleges irregularities, then checked it out through some source other than the accused official?
6. What training do Putnam County poll workers get?
7. Have you run death records against voting records to determine whether any dead folks managed to cast ballots?

I'm looking forward to your follow ups.

Your pal,

Geoff Davidian

The Herald-Citizen asked: With nearly 300 election workers hired for election day in Putnam County, could counting and accuracy mistakes happen here?

"Never," responded Nancy Boman, Putnam County Election Commission Registrar.

New Putnam Pit poll:

Expert?

Boman knows because she

Illegally bought $200,000 in voting machines

Was sued for illegally sealing machines

Doesn't understand write-in election law
